About

HSeLand – Health Services eLearning and Development - is the Health services online learning portal, developed and run by the Health Service Executive’s National HR Leadership, Education and Talent Development Service.

HSeLand provides a central source of high-quality online training and learning and development opportunities that enables staff to develop new personal and professional skills, update and refresh existing skills and enables them to take responsibility for their own learning interventions.

It has become the default learning platform for health and social care professionals throughout the entire health service. Our core mission is to provide an environment that facilitates teaching through the provision of online learning resources, live events or a combination of each.

Here’s some answers to questions we get asked. Please use the Contact Us form if you would like to talk to a member of the HSeLand team about how we can help you in this area.

+ What Resources are available HSeLand?

+ Who is HSeLand available to?

+ Who manages HSeLand?

+ How is HSeLand funded?

+ Do I have to use the HSeLand team if I want to offer online learning?

+ How does HSeLand support HR?

+ Has HSeLand been recognised by others?
