Dear colleague,

Thank you for your interest in working at the Nightingale Hospital. We are incredibly grateful for your support; the NHS would be nothing without its people and by putting yourself forwards you are proving this to be the case.

We hope you enjoyed attending our training at the Nightingale and hope the experience was of value. We greatly appreciate the time you have invested in attending training; our team enjoyed meeting you.

Thanks to the efforts of our NHS colleagues, and to the public for observing social distancing measures, we are in a position where the Nightingale Hospital has been able to close to patient admissions. Therefore you will not be called on to work at the Nightingale for now. For the foreseeable future, we advise that you should continue working for your current employer if applicable.

With your permission, once you are trained, we will keep you on our list of people ready to be deployed in the event that the Nightingale needs to be re-opened for patients. Please email us if you do not want us to do this.

We also apologise for the previous email sent in which all email addresses were visible. Your details should have not been shared this way and we are taking relevant steps to ensure that this error does not happen again. If the email reached you, we kindly request that you delete the original email containing confidential information. If you have any queries or concerns, please contact bartshealth.bhnt.ngale.workforcequeries@nhs.net.

Many thanks again for your ongoing support.

Kind regards,

Nightingale Workforce Team
