

Duplex scanning demonstrated minor intimal thickening in both internal carotid arteries. Vertebral and subclavian artery velocities were within the normal range bilaterally.

Conclusion:

1. Minor ICA disease bilaterally, 16-49% (nearer 16%).

Reported By: I. Stanisic, Clinical Vascular Ultrasound Scientist